About This Game

Rogue Operatives Hide N' Seek

A team of rogue Novak Operatives have taken on the forms of inanimate objects to hide themselves from their old comrades. The loyal Operatives - still albeit just in control of the planet - must find and disinfect the rogues in order to bring them back safely to the side of Novak Intelligence and back to their human form. Play tactically or all out crazed mayhem with up to 16 players with stealthy movements and humorous chases being the name of the game.

Great concept, sweet steampunk/Victorian aesthetic, lots of potential, and overall a fun take on rogue-lites if that's your cup of tea. Getting a group together can sometimes be a pain, and after a while the gameplay can feel (unsurprisingly) repetitive, and god forbid you're one of the unlucky users who has all their progress mysteriously lost to the digital void, but otherwise the devs are pretty good about keeping it updated with content releases and bugfixes.. I grew up playing these sorts of game, obsessively graphing every square on graph paper in Wizardry, Bard's Tale, Might & Magic. Each of those games were finely honed to be exasperatingly difficult but achievable.

This game pits your party of 2-6 hp adventures against monsters who do 74 damage per hit in the tutorial room that you first appear in. Party Creation to Party wipe in four mouse clicks courtesy of a single Vigilante and then back to the Party Creation screen.

In my opinion, the developer(s) have taken the idea of a critical path far, far too literally. I was supposed to walk two squares forward instead of one forward and one to the right. Note: there's no prompting or visual cues that one of the seven doors you're presented with is the "right" way. There are no clues even to what kind of building you are in to let you know that maybe some of the identical doors are instant death. This is literally the first split second of the game after it's told you the controls. You are in a room. There are seven doors. Here are the movement controls. Oops you're dead.

Talk about worst foot forward!

EDIT: Read the comments for this review to see the developer responding to constructive criticism. Also, please note that this review was for the initial launch version and not the version currently being offered.. This review is in english an spanish. Esta revisión esta en ingles y español

English:

A good lateral-spaceship-shooter, similar to the Old Gadius but his own personality.

My only complaint is if you are playing with gamepad there is some missing keys like the pause button, which you only can activate with the Keyboard (chek keyboard configuration, dont press ESC because it close de game). The graphics feels a little blurry. Everything else is good for me.

9/10

Español:

Muy buen juego tipo shooter de naves espaciales, que de cierta manera me recuerda al clásico Gadius, aunque este juego genera su propia personalidad.

Mi unicas quejas es que si lo juegas con gamepad no todas las botones estan disponibles, por ejemplo, para hacer pausa en el juego o volver al menú tienes que recurrir al teclado, revisar los botones del teclado cuando juegas por primera vez, porque ESC te cierra el juego. Los gráficos pudieron estar mas pulidos (se sienten borrosos). Por lo demas, el juego esta muy bueno.

9/10. A good game. Has a lot of potential. It's a good Civ clone, it has all the vibes of Civ games from Civ 1 - 6 and could be developed further. I will change my review to recommend after a lots of improvements or when it's out of early access (with a lots of improvements, of course).. This game is pretty fun but it still requires some work, took me about 20 minutes to get past level 1 but after that the levels were relatively easy. i didnt stop playing till i got to level 10, the beginning of the level you have to make not one but two pixal perfect jumps through spike wheels which is then followed with a frictionless wall jump. im 99% sure that frictionless wall jumping is bugged because it doesnt let you jump off the walls, i gave up after about 5 minutes of literally going nowhere. the physics seem really off but this is due to no air friction to slow your acceleration and to help you slow down, the only friction is on the ground. the green floor feels really off because it kills all forward motion with which im use to having to kill myself, had to get use to that to get past the first level. Personally all this game really needs is better indicators around the spikes because it doesnt look the spkies are killing you, its more of the air around the spikes. for the dallor i spent on it, it was totally worth.

It is a very good add-on, you get a new variety of vehicles. But, after installing you have to edit the ailst.cfg file on the map you want the new ai vehicles (see the instruction in the manual).. DO NOT BUY, STAY WELL CLEAR EVEN IF OFFERED FOR FREE.

I wish I never purchased this app. It has caused me hours of frustration.

At first it worked fine, but I noticed my game frame rate had reduced by 10-20fps. So I decided to force the game into full screen and see the comparison in fps. My screen flickered from window to full screen back to window then full screen, etc etc, then the game crashed.

So I rebooted my pc and tried running Magic Borderless again, only to receive a error message (An error occurred while updating Magic Borderless).

I am not able to get the software to work, and what is even more annoying is I am also not able to uninstall or reinstall the software. I think I have spoken every swear word that exists in the Oxford dictionary and the Urban dictionary because of this piece of *@# .

. This Add-On is excellent but, i don't know how to get the cabcar ditch lights to be on permanently? i know this can be done with the Comet V.. A fun casual game. A reasonably vast world to explore and meet various, umm "things".. I played this on my browser before and enjoyed it every since
